

Jackson Collaborative Network

Designing Powerful Strategies

Join us for a virtual Learning Convening

December 16, 2020 10:00—11:30 a.m.

We will be focusing on developing powerful systems change strategies to address root causes and issues impacting those you serve. These strategies will help shift the mindsets, policies, and practices that are contributing to the problem. This is a key part of the action planning process which can be found here: Action Planning Discussion Guide

You can also catch up on previous learning convening recordings covering the first action process steps on our network YouTube channel here: YouTube Channel

Participants will:

- Gain an understanding of how to build powerful strategies that drive equity around root causes.
- Learn how to brainstorm, group and label, prioritize and prototype strategy ideas.
- Understand how to apply available tools within your organization.

Who should attend? Network members and partners that are committed to building strong strategies that address root causes of issues within their organization.

This event is part of a planned program of technical assistance and training provided by the Jackson Collaborative Network. These services are designed to build partner capacity to engage in and lead systems change efforts individually within their own organizations, and collectively within the community.
